GENERAL INFORMATION.

MANAGEMENT.

COOPER MEMORIAL COLLEGE is under the control of the Kansas Synod of the United Presbyterian Church. The instruction is thoroughly Christian, but not in any sense sectarian.

BUILDING.

The building is one hundred and twenty feet front, fifty feet deep, three stories high, containing recitation rooms, art room, offices, janitor's room, and a chapel 28x50 with an extension 20x50 feet. The entire structure is built of Strong City limestone, and is one of the handsomest college buildings in Kansas. The site is an admirable one, just at the outskirts of the city. The building has already cost $25,000 in cash, and when fully completed will cost about $40,000. There is ample room for carrying on all college work.

LITERARY WORK.

An essay and a declamation will be required from each student during each term. Each student will be required to take part in a public exhibition, held at such times as the faculty may appoint. There are also other literary exercises in connection with class room work. The Chrestomathean literary society affords the advantages which such societies are designed to give.

DISCIPLINE.

All students are expected to conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen, and such action on the part of students will render few restraints necessary. No student of known immoral character will be permitted to remain in the school.

Graham, Omaha, Nebraska, will deliver the annual address on Tuesday evening, June 11th.

LOCATION.

Sterling the seat of COOPER MEMORIAL COLLEGE, is situated in Rice county, Kansas, in the valley of the Arkansas river. It is at the junction of the main line of the A. T. & S. F. and the Salina, Sterling & El Paso branch of the Missouri Pacific. It is in the geographical center of the State, and is a beautiful, growing city. It has a population of about two thousand. Under the state prohibitory law there are no saloons to tempt the young. The city has an excellent system of water works.

The valley in which Sterling is situated is one of the most productive in the State. Small grain, corn, sorghum, broom corn and live stock are staple products of the country. The city has two syrup manufactories whose output is thousands of gallons yearly, affording employment to a considerable number of men and a profitable cash market for sorghum cane. The country is underlaid with strata of pure rock salt hundreds of feet in thickness. Two salt plants are in operation day and night. The salt produced is of the very best quality. The country tributary to Sterling is quite extensive, affording profitable custom for merchandising and trade.

Besides the college, Sterling affords excellent educational advantages in its public schools. There is a central building in which is the High School. Other buildings have been erected in other parts of the city to accommodate increased attendance. The public school courses are carefully graded, and able instructors are employed.

There are eleven church societies in Sterling. The organizations are as follows: First and Second United Presbyterian, Presbyterian, Reformed Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Congregational, Friends, Christian, United Brethren and Adventists.

The Gazette, Bulletin, Champion and News are published at Sterling. The Y. M. C. A. has an organization, which has a reading room free to all, and a library whose privileges all may enjoy for a nominal sum. Sterling is a city of newspapers and churches.

HISTORY.

COOPER MEMORIAL COLLEGE is the result of the enterprising spirit of the citizens of Sterling. In October, 1886, the Sterling Land and Investment Company offered the site and building on condition that the synod endow the institution. The synod accepted this offer on condition that it have five years in which to raise the endowment. A committee of synod was appointed to confer with the company. The company accepted the conditions made by the synod, and the following contract was made between the company and synod's committee:

The proposition of the Sterling Land and Investment Company, to the Synod of Kansas of the United Presbyterian Church of North America:

In Book-keeping, the first four months are devoted to a thorough mastery of underlying principles, with work in both simple and double methods. The next three months are devoted to work in Commission, Lumbering, Manufacturing and Banking, with special attention to the forms of actual business.

Commercial Law as applied to actual business is taught methodically.

In Penmanship, the objects sought are good muscular movement and an easy, rapid hand.

The time required to complete a course in Phonography, with a speed of 130 words per minute, is about six months.

Tuition in Phonography is $4.00 per month. For the other branches, $1.00 per month. Students can take part work in the regular college classes at proportional rates. Students can enter the Commercial Department at any time.

MUSIC.

The department of Music is in charge of Miss Flora Harriman, and affords excellent facilities for the study of this subject. A regular course of instruction has been arranged in this department, and lessons will be given on piano and organ. For a course of twenty lessons on piano and organ, the terms are

GENERAL INFORMATION.

ORIGIN OF THE COLLEGE.

COOPER MEMORIAL COLLEGE is the result of the enterprising spirit of the citizens of Sterling. In October, 1886, the Sterling Land and Investment Company offered the site and building on condition that the synod endow the institution. The synod accepted this offer on condition that it have five years in which to raise the endowment. A committee of synod was appointed to confer with the company. The company accepted the conditions made by the synod, and a contract was made between the company and synod's committee.

NAME.

In honor of the late Rev. Joseph T. Cooper, D.D., professor in the Allegheny Theological Seminary, well known and beloved throughout the United Presbyterian Church, the name Cooper Memorial was given, as a tribute of respect.

HISTORY.

The doors were opened to students November 1st, 1887. During the first year thirty students were catalogued. During the second year eighty-four students were enrolled in the different departments; of these, thirty-four were literary students. During the present year, one hundred and twenty-nine have been enrolled. Of these, fifty-nine are literary students, a gain of 73 per cent. over the preceeding year.

Professors A. N. Porter and S. A. Wilson took charge of the work at the opening. At the outset very serious difficulties presented themselves. A partial failure of crops made the work of securing endowment tedious, and almost impracticable.

In addition to this local troubles, since happily removed, deprived the college of much needed support.

In March, 1889, the Senate elected Rev. F. M. Spencer, D.D., President, and on the 4th of September he was inaugurated.

During the last year the outlook of the College has improved at least 100 per cent. and the prospects of increased attendance next year are very flattering. A large number of new students from our congregations in the synod of Kansas are already promised.

BUILDING.

The building is one hundred and twenty feet front, fifty feet deep, three stories high, containing recitation rooms, art room, offices, janitor's room, and a chapel 28x50, with an extension 20x40 feet. The entire structure is built of Strong City limestone, and is one of the handsomest college buildings in Kansas. The site is an admirable one, just at the outskirts of the city. The building has already cost $25,000 in cash, and when completed will cost about $40,000. There is ample room for carrying on all college work.

LOCATION.

Sterling, the seat of COOPER MEMORIAL COLLEGE, is situated in Rice county, Kansas, in the valley of the Arkansas river. It is at the junction of the main line of the A. T. & S. F. and the Salina, Sterling & El Paso branch of the Missouri Pacific. It is in the geographical center of the State, and is a beautiful, growing city. It has a population of about two thousand. Under the State prohibitory law there are no saloons to tempt the young. The city has an excellent system of water works.

The valley in which Sterling is situated is one of the most productive in the State. Small grain, corn, sorghum, broom corn and live stock are staple products of the country. The city has syrup manufactories whose output is thousands of gallons yearly, affording employment to a considerable number of men and a profitable cash market for sorghum cane. The country is underlaid with strata of pure rock salt hundreds of feet in thickness. A salt plant is in operation day and night, and another one ready to commence operation. The salt produced is of the very best quality. The country tributary to Sterling is quite extensive, affording profitable custom for merchandising and trade.

Besides the College, Sterling affords excellent educational advantages in its public schools. There is a central building in which is the High School. Other buildings have been erected in other parts of the city to accommodate increased attendance. The public school courses are carefully graded, and able instructors are employed.

The Bulletin, Gazette and Champion are published at Sterling. The Y. M. C. A. has an organization, which has a reading room free to all, and a library, whose privileges all may enjoy for a nominal sum. Sterling is a city of newspapers and churches.

ENDOWMENT.

Prior to October, 1889, nearly $8000 had been secured for the endowment of the College, Rev. R. J. Thompson and W. M. Ewing, M. D., doing the work. At the above time Rev. W. L. Garges entered upon the financial agency. The members of the Synod of Kansas meeting in Richmond, in an arousing and enthusiastic conference, subscribed $2400. Nearly $14,000 have been secured, and the raising of the remainder is assured. When so much benefit, both to the Synod of Kansas and to the United Presbyterian church at large, is involved, failure on the part of the Synod to keep her contract cannot be thought of for a moment.

EXAMINATIONS.

Examinations will be held upon the completion of each subject, and as much oftener as the faculty may think best. Reports of these examinations and also the monthly records will be sent to parents or guardians at the end of each term. No student should enter any class until fully up with it. All students should take one of the above courses. Those not desiring to take regular courses will be permitted to select from any work of the term, if competent to do so.

All students are required to recite a Bible lesson once a week. Each student will be required to pass an examination in the common English branches each year. Thoroughness is the aim in all the departments.

TEXT BOOKS.

The following is a partial list of the text books which will be used: Arithmetics, Ray's Higher, Stoddard's Intellectual;

Higher Mathematics, Wentworth's Series; Reed & Kellog's English Grammar; U. S. History, Taylor; Geography, Barnes' New Descriptive, Guyot's Physical; Allen and Greenough's Latin Course; Leighton's Latin Lessons; Goodwin's Greek Grammar and Anabasis; Sedgwick and Keep's Homer; White's Greek Lessons; Natural Philosophy, Avery.

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the Preparatory Department should be prepared for examination in Geography, Arithmetic, United States History and the elements of English Grammar. Applicants for advanced standing must pass examinations in previous work of class. Students from other colleges must present certificates of standing. Applicants from accredited High Schools, presenting certificates showing that they have done the work of the Preparatory Department, or an equivalent, will be admitted without examination.

Ladies and gentlemen are admitted on equal terms.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the College is as far as possible paternal. Students are expected to conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen, and such action on the part of students will render few restraints necessary. No student of known immoral character will be permitted to remain in the College.

LITERARY WORK.

An essay or declamation will be required from each student during each term. Each student will be required to take part in a public exhibition, held at such times as the faculty may appoint. There are also other literary exercises in connection with class room work. There are two literary societies in the College. The Chrestomathean is for gentlemen. The Erodelphian is for ladies, and has been organized during the present year. Both of these societies are in good condition. Nearly all of the literary students are members of these societies.

BOARDING.

Boarding by the week can be had at low rates. The clubbing plan is more popular. During the year board in "The Club" has cost as follows: furnished room 50 cents per week. Cooking 75 cents per week (this includes fuel and table service). Provisions this year have averaged a little less than 75 cents per week. Total $2.00 per week. Fuel and light will increase this to about $2.25 per week. Students who furnish their own rooms and cook for themselves live much cheaper. Some have reduced the expense to $1.25 per week. It will thus appear that there are few points "under the sun," where living is cheaper than in Sterling. Flour, meats and vegetables are much cheaper than in eastern towns and in the large cities.

LECTURE COURSE.

During the year the Y. M. C. A. has given to the public a course of lectures, including Edward Baxter Perry, Frank Beard, Jesse Bowman Young, Col. L. F. Copeland and the Schubert Quartette. A similar course is already promised for next year. Rev. J. D. Rankin, of Denver, is to deliver the annual address on Tuesday evening, June 17.

CHURCHES.

There are eleven church societies in Sterling: First and Second United Presbyterian, Reformed Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Congregational, Friends, Christian, United Brethren and Adventist.

The First Church reports 48 members and has a beautiful church building and a live Sabbath school. Rev. J. A. McKee is the acting pastor.

The Second Church reports 90 members and worships in the College Chapel. The President of the College preaches to this congregation morning and evening.

IMPROVEMENTS.

During the year a boardwalk 5 feet, 4 inches in width has been laid, reaching from the center of Sterling to the College grounds. This is found to be a great convenience.

OMISSION.

The names of Rev. R. E. Stewart, Dennison, Kansas; Rev. P. H. Wylie, Sterling, Kansas, and J. S. Gibson, Esq., Americus, Kansas, were inadvertently omitted from their proper places in the catalogue.
